

FAC 614. Special Courses (Appointment, Independent Study, Career Connections Internship and Field Experience, Readings and Research)

Students may enroll for various kinds of individualized instruction, including courses by appointment, independent study, Career Connections internships and field experiences, and readings and research, following submission of a formal application to the Provost and Dean of the Faculty. Forms are available in the Student Enrollment Services Office. The "Special Courses" section in the McPherson College Catalog describes each of the above types of individualized instruction. Questions about proper use of these special courses should be directed to the Provost and Dean of the Faculty.
